Last week in a One partner-shop the SaaS software solution “your NTSwincash” went into operation for the first time. The online POS software is particularly suitable for small- and medium-size companies.

Just recently a One partner shop has been opened in the Designer Outlet McArthurGlen in Parndorf. With the 3rd of October the owner of this shop relies on the SaaS (Software as a service) POS solution “your NTSwincash” by NTS New Technology Systems GmbH. For the company this SaaS solution represents an important milestone in the ten year history of the company. of the customer.

According to Günther Schrammel CEO, the company can develop new markets with this SaaS point of sale solution:

„The point of sale solution developed by our software engineers is very suitable for small- and medium size companies which do not want to buy expensive software licenses and still would like to use software with the whole range of available functions. SaaS allows them to pay by monthly and manageable installments. Especially for small- and medium size companies it hardly would be cost efficient to invest into expensive server hardware and network infrastructure. We make this investment for these companies who then can easily access their software applications online. We trust that we can support many smaller companies all over Europe with this new software solution.”

SaaS - Software as a Service

The technical operation management of such a software solution will be fully carried out by the providing company. In this case the customer accesses the software applications and his data online. Especially for small and medium-size companies SaaS has some fundamental advantages since it is not necessary to invest in server hardware and the network infrastructure. Furthermore various administration-, maintenance- and support costs can be left out for these companies. Customers who decide to get a SaaS solution do not need any specific IT knowledge, as it will be fully provided by the IT experts of the respective software company. A SaaS solution usually can be installed and started up very quickly without time consuming software installations).
