

A good career start: NTS advises HTL informatics students on applications & jobs

Wilhering, Austria – for the second time this year the European market leader in point of service and retail management solutions, NTS New Technology Systems can look forward to some lively visits: following an Information event for students of the Austrian Bundeshandelsakademie (Federal Academy of Trade) in February, the Software Specialists from NTS will support and advise students of the Höhere Technische Lehranstalt für EDV und Organisation (Higher Technical College for EDP and Organisation) on 5th March 2009. “The Leonding HTL is clearly the forge of future talent which qualified most of our development department, so we are naturally happy to support the college as sponsor and partner” explains Günther Schrammel, CEO of NTS New Technology Systems GmbH (www.ntswincash.com).

Presentations on the requirements set by NTS, potential areas of employment and long-term career opportunities at NTS are not simply informative but indeed address precisely the desired target group. Over 70% of the NTS development team attended the HTL Leonding, and later worked directly on “NTSwincash”, the heart of the successful software enterprise. The highly efficient solution networks large companies with all branches and processes data collected from sales, distribution and marketing in real-time ensuring efficient management. “Such comprehensive entrepreneurial solutions naturally demand highly trained developers, so we support the HTL Leonding not only with careers information and events, but also actively participate with a jury member in the internal school project awards and offer industrial placements.” according to Schrammel.

NTS already demonstrated that such a commitment pays off for cooperation between industry and research in summer 2008; the NTSwincash distributor solution was completely updated and expanded in cooperation with students of the Vienna Technical University. The results at once exceeded all expectations. “We hope to receive numerous applications to our development department, where there is certainly a concrete demand” underlines Schrammel.
